Hi Lads, I just bought an Audi a4 06 B7 with 123k miles, exterior and interior are in pristine condition but it has some serious problems. First of all i got this car as a project car from the auction for $2,500 through my Cousin who's a dealer, i knew it had problems but using vagcom didn't show anything serious. Car drives ok on highway but it has sluggish acceleration and really rough idle ...

The cam follower is a very small part that looks almost like a metal thimble and it's one of the few Audi design faults on the B7 A4. It can wear quite quickly and when it does, it can lead to power loss, a check-engine light and a rough engine. If it breaks completely, it can lead to serious damage.
