a bond can influence the amount of energy needed to break the bond. For example the carbon—carbon bond in the two molecules shown below may not have the same bond energy because the surrounding atoms are different. Bond energies can be very useful (as you will soon discover) for calculating the net energy change in a reaction.

- The energy for life primarily derives from the sun. Plants capture energy by absorbing light and using it to form strong (covalent) chemical bonds between the atoms of carbon-containing (organic) molecules. In addition, the energy stored in bonds between the atoms (chemical energy) can be used as sources of energy for life processes.
