ethics. Biblical admonitions exhorted the Israelites and the early Christians to practice this virtue. Its practice characterized Abraham ( Gen 18:2-8) and the church leaders ( 1 Tim 3:2; Titus 1:8). And, as hospitality is an attribute of God, one finds its images in the biblical proclamation of the relationship between God and the covenant people.

In the New Testament the duty was reemphasized for the Christian community.

Romans 12:13 says, "Contribute to the needs of the saints, practice hospitality."

Literally it says, "Pursue hospitality." And the verb implies continuous action.

look like for the authors of the New Testament? Dr. Joshua Jipp presents the biblical concept of hospitality through a thorough examination of the relevant literature in Luke-Acts, the Gospel of John, and the Pauline Letters. The course begins by exploring the ancient background of hospitality as practiced in the Graeco-Roman world and ancient
