David Amiel Freedman (5 March 1938 – 17 October 2008) was Professor of Statistics at the University of California, Berkeley. He was a distinguished mathematical statistician whose wide-ranging research included the analysis of martingale inequalities, Markov processes, de Finetti's theorem, consistency of Bayes estimators, sampling, the bootstrap, and procedures for testing and evaluating models.

David A. Freedman - Wikipedia

I took statistics and didn't like it at all. This was likely my own fault, as I was not a very serious student -- occasionally ditching class and frequently staying up much too late. During that fall semester in my statistics class, I wrote what seemed like a massive paper to an 18 year old, at 21 pages long (but it included data).

I was a student of David Freedman's and I am now a professor in Biostatistics and Statistics at Berkeley. Speaking at David Freedman's memorial is at once one of the hardest and easiest things I have had to do. Hardest, because I miss David dearly and because I remember him as a very private and reserved person.
